BIOGRAPHY OF MOTHER SETON

(1774 – 1821)

Elizabeth Ann Bayley was born August 28, 1774 in New York City. Her father, Dr. Richard Bayley, was a prominent physician and surgeon and the first Health Officer in New York City. Her mother, Catherine Charlton Bayley, the daughter of an Episcopal minister, died May 8, 1777 leaving three children, Mary 7, Elizabeth, 2 years, 9 months, and an infant, Catherine, who died two years later. Dr. Richard Bayley died of yellow fever in 1801.

A year after his wife died, Dr. Richard Bayley married Charlotte Amelia Barclay. They had four children. Mary and Elizabeth spent their summers with their Uncle William Bayley at the Pell Bayley House in New Rochelle, New York.

Elizabeth Bayley married William Magee Seton, a wealthy shipping magnate on January 25, 1794. They had five children: Anna Maria (May 3, 1795); William (November 25, 1796); Richard (July 20, 1798); Catherine (June 28, 1800); and Rebecca (August 20, 1802).

William Magee Seton suffered financial ruin and died of tuberculosis December 27, 1803 in Italy leaving Elizabeth a poor young widow with five small children.

Anna Maria, the eldest daughter, at 8 years of age, went to Italy with her parents where her ailing father died. She became affectionately called Annina by her mother. Anna Maria, as her father, died of tuberculosis March 12, 1812.

Elizabeth Seton, raised in the Episcopal Church, converted to Catholicism. She received her first Holy Communion in March 25, 1805. To raise and educate her own children, she became a teacher and wanted all children, boys and girls, to receive free education. At the Pace Street House in Baltimore she founded her first Catholic school.

On March 25, 1809 Elizabeth Seton pronounced vows of poverty, chastity and obedience. Henceforth, she became known as Mother Seton. She began the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph on July 31, 1809 at the Stone House in Emmitsburg, Maryland.

Mother Seton established St. Joseph's Academy, the first Catholic parochial school in the United States.

Elizabeth Seton died of tuberculosis on January 4, 1821 at the age of 47. Her remains are sealed in the Basilica of St. Elizabeth Ann Seton in Emmitsburg, Maryland.

In September 1975, Elizabeth Seton became the first native-born American to be canonized as a saint. A tapestry bearing her image hung over the entrance to St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.

BRIEF HISTORY

Seton Hall University was founded in 1856 by Bishop James Roosevelt Bayley, the first bishop of Newark, who named it after his aunt, Elizabeth Ann Seton, a pioneer in Catholic education and the first American-born saint. The University is the oldest diocesan university in the United States. Nestled on 58 acres in the suburban village of South Orange, New Jersey, Seton Hall's campus is home to eight schools and colleges: the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Education and Human Services, the College of Nursing, the John C. Whitehead School of Diplomacy and International Relations, the School of Graduate Medical Education, the Stillman School of Business, Immaculate Conception Seminary School of Theology and University College. Seton Hall's ninth school, the School of Law, is located in Newark, New Jersey.

From its original enrollment of a handful of students, Seton Hall grew rapidly. During its first 12 years, the College had enrolled over 500 freshmen from 17 states and six foreign countries. Seton Hall has always reflected the growing ethnic scope of its students and the increasing diversity of the Church and society it has served. In the 19th century, in spite of setbacks, major fires, lean times and the Civil War, the College continued to expand. By 1937, Seton Hall established a University College. This marked the first matriculation of women at Seton Hall. The University became fully coeducational in 1968.

The years after World War II witnessed unprecedented growth for Seton Hall as it responded to the needs of thousands of veterans seeking higher education. The College was organized into a university in 1950, comprising the College of Arts and Sciences and the schools of Business, Nursing and Education. The School of Law opened its doors in 1951 and the John C. Whitehead School of Diplomacy and International Relations was established in 1997, and formally named in 2002.

The 1950's and 1960's saw the modernization of a large number of facilities and the construction of the library, science building, residence halls and the University Center. Many new programs and majors were inaugurated, as were important social outreach efforts. New ties were established with the private and industrial sectors, and a growing partnership developed with federal and state governments in creating programs for the economically and educationally disadvantaged.

The 1970s and 1980s continued to be a time of growth and renewal. New business and nursing classroom buildings and an art center were opened. In 1984 the Immaculate Conception Seminary returned to Seton Hall, its original home until 1926, when it moved to Darlington. With construction of four new residence halls between 1986-1988, and the purchase of off-campus apartment buildings in 1990 and 2004, Seton Hall now provides living space for approximately 2,100 students.

The physical development of the campus continued in the 1990's. In 1994, construction was completed on the $20 million, four-story Walsh Library. Seton Hall houses its College of Education and Human Services, Stillman School of Business, Center for Public Service, and the Departments of Sociology and Anthropology, Psychology, and Political Science in a facility now called Jubilee Hall to commemorate the University's Sesquicentennial in 2006. The Class of 2007 will be the 150th graduating class in the University's history. A new core curriculum and a slate of potential initiatives lie ahead for Seton Hall, as well as the conclusion of an historic capital campaign that will fund scholarships, campus expansion and science and technology teaching and research for decades to come.

The 1956 centenary history of the University prophetically concluded with these words: "Seton Hall University's great boast and claim to fame is not predicated on expansion, buildings or even curriculum. It lies rather in the hearts and minds of a dedicated and devoted faculty." Seton Hall's history has been one primarily of people: students and faculty living and working together in a community of learning, a community rooted in a Catholic tradition that is a home for the mind, the heart and the spirit.

¹ Note: In the Fall 1999 cohort, 3 deceased students are excluded from the statistics.² Note: "Retention After 1 Yr" is the number of students still enrolled from their entering fall semester to the next fall semester. For example, in Fall 1994, 926 freshmen entered and in Fall 1995, 775 of those students were still enrolled. This yielded a retention rate of 83.7%.³ Note: "Retention After 2 Yrs" is the number of students still enrolled from their entering fall semester to two fall semesters later. For example, in Fall 1994, 926 freshmen entered and in Fall 1996, 661 of those students were still enrolled. This yielded a retention rate of 71.4%.⁴ Note: "Retention After 3 Yrs" is the number of students still enrolled from their entering fall semester to three fall semesters later. For example, in Fall 1994, 926 freshmen entered and in Fall 1997, 629 of those students were still enrolled. This yielded a retention rate of 67.9%.⁵ Note: Attrition figures follow the same logic as the above three notes except the number of students who left without earning a degree are tracked.⁶ Source: Data compiled by the Planning Office from information contained on the university's registration files on Student Information System (SIS).

NSSE DASHBOARDS

National Survey of Student Engagement 6-year Review

NSSE: For six years Seton Hall has been an annual participant in an ambitious assessment project devised by George Kuh and colleagues at the University of Indiana. The National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE) asks students not to rate their courses or curricula in terms of satisfaction with various aspects; rather, it asks them to quantify their participation in and opportunities for experiences and learning environments that are active and collaborative, enriched and challenging – to quantify, in essence, the extent that their courses and coursework ‘pull them in’ via pedagogy and practices known to lead to deeper levels of learning. Rather than students assigning subjective satisfaction ratings to professors, courses or programs, students respond to concrete questions giving frequencies with which they encounter certain features in their educational environment and indications of the extents to which they have participated in important activities and behaviors.

Through participation in a national project that each year achieves participation wide and varied, Seton Hall’s NSSE results are calibrated against meaningful standards and references. This provides Seton Hall a means to see and consider - relative to other institutions - the success of its investments and efforts to foster proven instructional practices. That the survey project is both nationally calibrated and comprised of behavioral metrics rather than satisfaction ratings makes the NSSE data a more potent resource in the set of institutional level assessment data available for self-study.

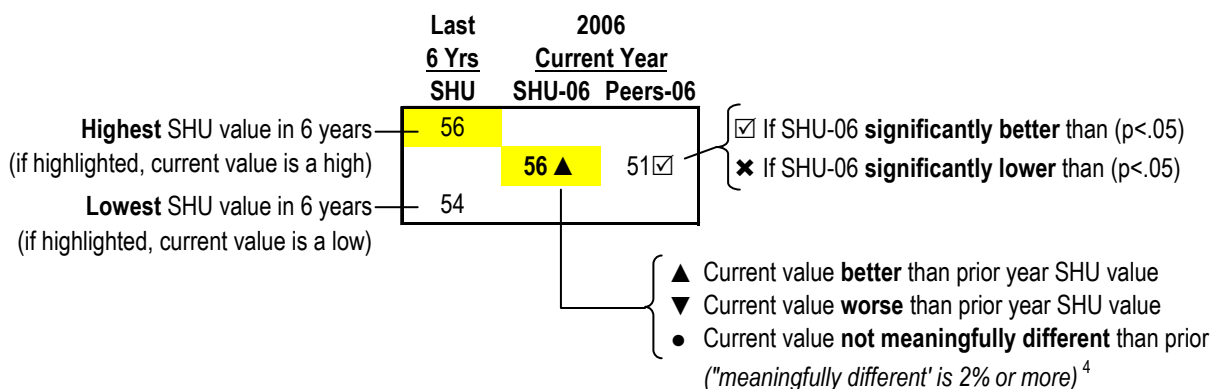

2006: The Dashboard reviews the past 6 years of Seton Hall’s own trend data alongside comparisons with ‘peer’ institutions’ values from the latest study year. A total of 523 institutions participated in NSSE 2006. Seton Hall’s 2006 peer comparison group is the subset of 38 participants in the same Carnegie 2000 category as Seton Hall (doctoral intensive). Nationally, the response rate of this group was 31%. At Seton Hall, the rate was 33%, with 35% for first-year students and 30% for seniors.

Results: NSSE targets two distinct groups of students: first-year students and seniors. Accordingly, data are reviewed, calibrated (against national datasets) and reported separately within these groups. NSSE uses a subset¹ of the full set of questions to distill the raw results into 5 themes. NSSE refers to these as its benchmarks of Effective Educational Practices.² In the dashboard displays that follow, subsets of Seton Hall results are presented and grouped using this same framework. While for reasons of simplicity and space we could not include in these displays every question that NSSE uses to derive its benchmarks, selection of the questions was systematic and balanced. In each dashboard – there is one for first-year students and one for seniors – we show the salient Seton Hall results within all five NSS benchmarks. These include all highest and lowest SHU outcomes (relative to Carnegie comparison set results) and about half the question that associate with SHU’s more moderate outcomes.

Format: The trend indicators within each dashboard cell give simple synopsis of where SHU stands relative to two sets of reference data – the first: SHU relative to itself, historically over 6 years; the second: SHU in comparison to reported NSSE 2006 Carnegie peer results. The legend page explains fully the SHU NSSE dashboard format, each statistic in the dashboard cell, and the process used to derive the indicators that accompany.³ For further details and answers to technical questions, please contact Janet Easterling (easterja@shu.edu) in the Office of Institutional Research, (973)761-9735.

NSSE DASHBOARD KEY

Legend

"Peer" values are values calculated across the set of Carnegie doctoral-intensive universities that participated in NSSE in spring 2006 (listing by name available).

Additional Notes

Note 1: The NSSE study collects a set of data that includes a good number of questions that are not used in deriving the NSSE benchmarks. Readers interested in seeing the complete set of NSSE questions can view or print the survey available at: http://nsse.iub.edu/html/survey_instruments_2007.cfm

Note 2: The five themes of NSSE benchmarks are: "Level of Academic Challenge" (LAC), "Active and Collaborative Learning" (ACL), "Student-Faculty Interaction" (SFI), "Enriching Educational Experiences" (EEE), and "Supportive Campus Environment" (SCE).

Note 3: The dashboards displayed here are paper versions of a dashboard designed at Seton Hall for online (web) use. In the original web version, the trend indicators within each dashboard include hyperlinks to additional graphs which reveal sets of SHU outcomes over time. The original web versions of these dashboards are available on Seton Hall's intranet.

Senior results:

<http://myweb.shu.edu/bbcswebdav/institution/Academic%20Affairs/Provost/Dashboards/PIRA/SR.html>

Note 4: Whenever a trend direction indicator is shown followed by a ^, a positive gap between SHU and its peers exists, is being maintained, and is judged sufficiently large to influence the choice of trend indicator. For example, ●^ signals that a ▼ could have been chosen since the 2006 value is lower than the 2005 value by more than 2%. Closer review reveals however that SHU maintained well its large positive distance from the average of its peers, and so ● was selected instead. Adjustments of this kind were made in a small number of cases (2 on the Senior Dashboard and 4 on the First Year Dashboard) to avoid suggesting negative outcomes when sustained positive is the case.
